10 Diversity Advocates to Follow on Social Media

Go to your Instagram, twitter and Pinterest to follow these 10 diversity advocates. They all range in topic areas they advocate for. Follow the article to learn more about each advocate but below is a quick list.

- Reshma Saujani - Attorney, Activist, Founder and CEO of Girls Who Code
- Geena Davis - Actress, Activist, Founder of the Geena Davis Institute on Gender and Media
- Candice Morgan - Head of Inclusion and Diversity, Pinterest
- Jameela Jamil - Actress, Activist, Model and Radio Host
- Jean René (JR) - Artist, Activist
- Shonda Rhimes - Television Writer, Showrunner, Producer, Director and Book Author
- Amani Al-Khatahtbeh - Author, Tech Entrepreneur
- Jillian Mercado - Model, Activist
- Jennifer Foyle - Global Brand President, Aerie
- Tara Houska - Attorney, Activist

Day of Visibility 2020

Artist Texas Isaiah, created a portrait series. This community is not doing okay and needs to be talked about. Isaiah created this series to focus on the every day life of black transgender, gender-nonconforming and non-binary artists, and activist. The series allowed them to portray themselves as they see themselves as opposed to the way people view them. Checkout the article and the photo series to learn more about these great leaders and how they fight for themselves everyday.
I lost my home and job in one day

This blog is meant to highlight the way in which RA’s lost their jobs and rooms in one email. Receiving an email from the Chancellor to later getting one from the assistant director suspending all RA responsibilities for the reminder of the year. So much has been lost and will be lost. This position is rewarding and has the capability of giving an RA so much. Continue to read the blog to understand how the COVID-19 affected just one RA in our country and how it affected many more who share these feelings.

Graduate Students, inequities during the COVID-19 pandemic

With the unique challenges we face today as a country, our graduate students continue to feel like second class citizens in the higher education system. Graduate departments are trying to help but only focus on future efforts rather than the needs of the student now. Many graduate candidates can no longer work on their dissertation as it required travel or collaboration with other universities. Read the article to hear more struggles across the country.

Stories of Hope during COVID-19

We wanted to share some stories of hope and compassion. Go to the link and see the multiple stories that are offering help and support to our healthcare workers, the stories of recovery and so much more.

#StayHome

Do your part to prevent the spread.